"If the September number of 'The North American Review' may be accepted as a fair augury of the result of the change from monthly to bi-monthly publication, the English-speaking world will be the gainer by coming into possession of a first-rate organ of public opinion. Names of most distinguished contributors are signed to the articles it contains, and they are all so good that it is not easy to leave any of them unread. Colonel Harvey announces that 'The Review' will have 'distinctive policy'; it will seek the expression of the best thought upon vital subjects from every conceivable point of view, and it will have and express opinions of its own. Serious current literature will also receive consideration. From the beginning 'The North American Review' has been a pretty important publication, but in its ninety-second year it is at its best."-New York Times.
